

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

Hugh Hodgson School of Music

Full-Time Assistant Professor of Music Theory – Tenure Track

The Hugh Hodgson School of Music at the University of Georgia (UGA) invites applications and nominations for the position of assistant professor of music theory, tenure-track. Applicants meeting the minimum requirements are encouraged to apply. Anticipated start date is Aug. 1, 2019.

Responsibilities

- Teach music theory at the undergraduate through graduate levels. Teaching load is normally five courses per year and includes supervision of graduate teaching assistants.
- Conduct research and creative activity in the field of music theory.
- Participate in activities related to the academic mission of the university, including service on committees, student advising, student recruiting, and administration of area assessments.
- Other duties as assigned.

Minimum Qualifications

- An earned doctorate in Music Theory or be ABD with a terminal degree transcript on file no later than nine months from appointment date.
- At least one academic year of college-level teaching experience in music theory.

Preferred Qualifications

- Applicants whose scholarly expertise broadens the current research profile of the composition/theory area—including those who work with commercial, vernacular, or non-Western musics—are especially encouraged to apply.
- Ability to work collaboratively and effectively with students and faculty.
- Interest in contributing to other academic or performance-based areas of the school.
- A desire to contribute to a dynamic, holistic music program located in a city known for its music and arts culture.

To Apply

Applications will be accepted until November 3, 2018. Apply online at credentials and experience meet the needs, responsibilities, and qualifications stated above; a C.V.; and the names and contact information for at least three referees. Letters of reference, writing samples, evidence of teaching effectiveness, and transcripts will be requested from a smaller pool of applicants at a later date. Questions about the application process can be directed to Ms. Edith Hollander, somadmin@uga.edu; questions about the position can be directed to: Dr. Adrian Childs, apchilds@uga.edu, phone 706-542-3737, fax: 706-542-2773.

<http://ugajobsearch.com/postings/32530> providing a cover letter detailing how the applicant's

The Hugh Hodgson School of Music is home to 500 students and a faculty of 60. The Hodgson School is part of the Performing and Visual Arts Complex that includes the five-story music building, the Lamar Dodd School of Art, the Georgia Museum of Art, and the Performing Arts Center. Undergraduate programs include the Bachelor of Arts degree and the Bachelor of Music degree in composition, music education, music therapy, music theory, and music performance. Graduate offerings include the Master of Arts, Master of Music, Master of Music Education, Doctor of Education, Doctor of Musical Arts, and Doctor of Philosophy degrees in performance, conducting, composition, musicology/ethnomusicology, and music education.

About the University of Georgia

The University of Georgia (UGA), a land-grant and sea-grant university with statewide commitments and responsibilities, is the state's oldest, most comprehensive, and most diversified institution of higher education (<http://www.uga.edu/>). UGA is currently ranked among the top 20 public universities in U.S. News & World Report. The University's main campus is located in Athens, approximately 65 miles northeast of Atlanta, with extended campuses in Atlanta, Griffin, Gwinnett, and Tifton. UGA was founded in 1785 by the Georgia General Assembly as the first state-chartered University in the country. UGA employs approximately 1,800 full-time instructional faculty and more than 7,600 full-time staff. The University's enrollment exceeds 36,000 students including over 27,500 undergraduates and over 8,500 graduate and professional students. Academic programs reside in 17 schools and colleges, as well as a medical partnership with Augusta University housed on the UGA Health Sciences Campus in Athens.

The Franklin College of Arts and Sciences, its many units, and the University of Georgia are committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and students, and sustaining a work and learning environment that is inclusive. Women, minorities and people with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation, or protected veteran status. Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (hrweb@uga.edu). Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.